Prisoner Releases Expected. Authoritative army sources informed Ambassador Castro on December 13 and 14 that an unspecified number of political prisoners will be amnestied on Christmas and that the jails will be almost empty by the time the Inter-American Human Rights Commission arrives in Buenos Aires next spring. Interior Minister Harguindeguy suggested that the Christmas amnesty would encompass about 500 prisoners, and more might have been included but the Beagle Channel conflict with Chile was monopolizing the government's energy and resources. INR Comment. Self-interest will probably prompt the Argentines to empty their jails of executive (uncharged) prisoners prior to the IAHRC visit. A substantial number of detainees are likely to be released, but in all cases where the prisoner is considered a continuing security risk, charges will probably be filed and the prisoner shifted from executive to judicial authority.
